My experiances with SoQ?

Source Of quality was the first place I ever joined as a community member online. I signed up on the forums after playing in the servers that several of there clan members run. At the time it was zunnie and gabber. That was the place that started me off on a pursuit of knowledge.

I aksed to join there clan, but they refused me. I was pretty gutted. But I signed up to another clan, and have pretty much near enough stuck with what spawned from that clan ever since then.

But I still pop in on SoQ now and then.

I'm pretty sure they are the longest standing active renegade clan, they are really nice guys.

Don't judge SoQ from one cheater. Most clans could learn a thing or two from how they run there stuff. They are genuine.
