I'm not sure I really need hosting right now, but I'll be honest and say the things I use the most on my web server are ssh and vim, but I'm the exception rather than the rule.

Your setup seems pretty standard, if you want to offer extra services, some kind of cache for digg effect victims could be helpful.