Brave Little Toaster is absolutely fucking terrifying. We all rewatched it last semester because we all loved it as a kid. I mean... the psychotic clown fireman. This whole song about the appliances being disected. The whole song with the New electronics saying that they are better than the old appliances. THAT GOD DAMN MAGNET. I was scared of that magnet even has a kid. Oh and the Vacuum choking on his cord? That part scared me as a kid too. I finally saw it for what it was and I mean there are some things in this movie that are just not kid friendly topics. The vacuum being so terrified of the water he has a seziure and swallows his tongue. The discrimination against the old appliances. One of the appliances in that little repair shop is the shaver light and can opener and it's like "please kill me". Some unholy creature. All of the cars being destroyed and sadly singing as it happens. o_O Just thinking about it now has me a bit uneasy again... That is a disturbing movie...

Edit: Oh yeah I forgot when the air conditioner gets so mad and has a heart attack and shoots sparks and smoke and you watch it die. Again o_O...
