If you run lots of applications, more cores help. Sometimes I have 3DS max, Unreal edit (another 3D editor, so lots of memory and CPU usage) and then media player and Firefox etc. My single core would've died under that load, and a Celeron could forget it.