
Subject: Re: The meaning of life?

Posted by warranto on Thu, 09 Aug 2007 13:11:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've never turned to anyone for help. I am very much a "rely on yourself" type of person.... heck, I've never even had someone I looked up to; no "hero" of sorts.

Yet, I believe there is a God. I agree that some people use God as an excuse for many things, but it does not negate the idea that God may exist.

I have no reason to turn to God for assistance of any sort, nor do I believe he'll have reason to help me (but then again, I also believe no one, divine or not, would want to help me), so by your definition, I should not believe a God exists.

Yet, I do...
