I served 4 years in the Royal Engineers and joined up of my own accord

So dont talk shit about something you dont understand

Do you have any clue about what's going on in the war in Iraq? Seriously? Do you have family members over there telling you what's going on? I do. Being forced to do that is nothing like just signing up in the military because you want to.

I'm not against having people serve in the military , I'm against drafting unwilling people into a war where it is unnecessary.
