A moderator for the mod, when you're getting them to do things for the mod. If that's all you're going to give them i have some advice to give to the people willing to help you.

Don't do it. Mod on the mod isn't worth your time to create a home page and a logo for the mod.

Offer Team membership which includes alphas of the build and so-on. Stop being so selfish.

Also, you'd need to give people more information about the mod. What you want logos and websites to look like. Just saying "can you guys make me a logo" isn't all that helpful...
