Yeah but a server run by this community would be interesting and may serve to unite us more. (I know that sounds a little cheesy).

Since everyone plays in different servers, the members in this forum rarely run into each other. I don't know about others but to me it will mean a lot if there was a server where everyone from the forums here would join in and play.

And I agree completely with Spoony...we can decide on the rules and the mods and so on. It will be really interesting and will bring the community closer.