Some people use guns for target practice but not for killing, they use it for pleasure and personal entertainment, they don't have the intent to kill someone, maybe hunting animals, but they don't have intent to kill usually, just the feeling of owning a gun and firing it at something gives them a spark of enjoyment, though dangerous, next I'd like to see knives be banned, some people like collecting them for fun, though dangerous, just like guns, they don't have the intent to kill (usually, unless you plan too and are crazy)
