
Subject: Re: Whodunnit?!?!

Posted by IronWarrior on Fri, 21 Sep 2007 00:31:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cheesesoda wrote on Wed, 19 September 2007 19:17IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 19 September 2007 20:03z310 wrote on Wed, 19 September 2007 14:32Well I'm in awe. Another one without a father. >_>

Not a fan of condoms?

That's rude and you shouldn't had said that.

Back to the topic, doesn't really matter if they are at fault or not, their girl is missing and needs to be found.

You should feel sorry for them, it's the human thing to do, we all make mistakes, no one is prefect, not even when it comes to kids, if you are honest with yourselfs, you could easy find faults in your own life when it comes to something to do with kids as I've said eailer, we all make mistakes, that's part of being human.

Clare knows the both of us. Though, I'm not sure how she's going to take his comment.

As far as what you said, what the fuck does us finding faults in our own selves have ANYTHING to do with the topic?

The parents need to be charged with a crime, regardless of the outcome. If they're found to have no involvement in her disappearance, they need to be charged with negligence, and if they are found to be involved in her disappearance, they should be charged to the fullest of the law.

I haven't been following it too closely to really have an opinion on if I think they did it or not.

Read what was said in in this topic again and then you might understand what I've said in that post.

Kytten9, understood I'll believe.

The latest news seems to be that the Police are or trying to bug them, whatever is going on, I've think it's one big fuck up.

Alot of mistakes was made over there in the first 24 hours that shouldn't had been made.

I've also don't think they gonna find her, I'll think she is dead. :/

