the half assed enemy that most of us saw in the first Halo. I never played Halo 2 so I dont know if they designed more than 3 models in that one but....meh to it all.

Well they have Grunts, Jackels, Eliets, Brutes, Hunters, and those flying bug thingies (I don't know their names... I know that Sarge called them "Buggas" though)

The Grunts are those little midget dudes with the squeaky voices that run around in circles crying in fear of you. The Jackels are those short guys with the energy shields and the plasma pistoles. Elites are the human sized ones with the oversheilds. Brutes are those big fat bear like guys that take forever to kill. Hunters are those big guys with like 4 tones of armor that you need to shoot in the back to kill. "Buggas" are those small dudes that buzz around in large numbers and rape your squad.
