Obviously any game advertised this much or hyped as much as Halo 3 is overrated, but let's face it, it's a fun game to play. There's a lot of heroic moments on the multiplayer, crazy stunts and moves, etc. Halo was never anything revolutionary, but it's very fun owning your friends in the Halo series.

It's also one of the only modern games that has kept away from the slow-based bullshit. Most of the new shooters require you to take a lot of cover, and stay still for your aim to get more precise. Games like Halo, Renegade, and UT3 don't have any of that bullshit, and it makes them that much faster paced.
