You know, this is one of those topics that just makes you shake your head upon reading it. It's the sort of stupidity that you just know can't be meant as anything but a joke, yet it is in such poor taste- so utterly, mind-numbingly idiotic- that you can't even laugh at the person who posted it. I find it ironic that I should log on and see this particular topic at the top of the page not two minutes after I finished reading the autobiography of Fredrick Douglass for my American Literature course. Not funny ironic, mind you, but dry, tasteless ironic. Stepped out for a cigarette and turned around to see your house burning down ironic.

You fail at the internet.
