I find this is a stupid, horrible product.

It is highly unnecessary, smart yes, support of most of the community... maybe not.

They already have TFD, and they don't need another pack with just C&C3 on it.

In my opinion, I think that C&C Saga is just a cover up for the anticipated TFD Patch people have been begging to come out. EA just stuck a game on it and made it cost more money.

If you actually look at this from EA's perspective, you can see that they are just trying to find another way to sell Tiberium Wars. Think about it, other than Generals, all those other games on the pack are Westwood's creations. So they technically aren't losing any money by making a pack of 13 games cost about the same as just Tiberium Wars, because this is really all it is.. JUST Tiberium Wars with those added games as 'extras'
