
Subject: Re: Which way is better to communicate?
Posted by nikki6ixx on Fri, 05 Oct 2007 18:44:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Written word.

I manage a crew, and found that every time I gave orders verbally, someone always comes back, wanting clarification, or forgetting all, or part of the instruction.

So, I began to write small lists about a year ago, with some explanation for my employees, and I'll hand it to them. It takes a little longer, but I've never had anyone come back for clarification again, and every job is not only done right, but it's done the best way possible.

And I write letters, because it's more personal. Communication on a forum like this sucks, because one person's sarcastic joke, is another person's flame.
