While I agree that having sex at that age is wrong and disgusting, its not the parents fault. When I was 13 my parents never knew who I was with and what I was up to. They couldn't watch over me 24/7. Boys will be boys and try and have sex as young as possible because it gives them a 'cool' image to there friends. Girls at the age of 13-15 have sex because they feel that if they have sex with there boyfriend he will automatically love her and all is well. Peer pressure is also a main cause to this girls having sex at this kinda age. There fucking skanky friend goes on about how cool it is and everything making these girls feel insecure.

Over in the UK the legal age is 16. I think this is reasonable. When you're 16, you're leaving school, going out into the big world thats around us, so its only logically that its legal at the age.

I personally waited until I was 16, my girlfriend and I had been dating for a year and we both felt ready. It was in the comfort of my own home, not in some dirty ally way or in the bushes.

sadukar09, why 15? Is that your age?
