Technically, with enough lube, it would be perfectly "healthy" for a 50 year old man to stick his dick into the ass of a 6 year old boy...are you sure morals don't matter?

Ummmm no. That's very much damaging to a young child to be having sex and is "unhealthy." You're not being "technical" with your post at all. You often bring up the issue of old men raping young children, which of course absolutely no one agrees is acceptable in any way. I don't see why you need to repeat it all the time.

Also good job trying to bash me for being realistic instead of applying my own morals or jesus-talk to make things "good or bad." I'm talking about issues such as sex before marriage. If two people are at least lets say 16, love each other, and are monogamous then who says they shouldn't have sex? It's a natural part of life. Why restrict ourselves and make life unnecessarily harder?

And kirby get off your high horse please. Just because you're some old man doesn't make you correct and other's opinions invalid. Stop living in the past and see life outside the way the bible tells you to.
