If you have them, what's stopping you from using them?

If you don't have them, then what's stopping you from downloading them and using them?

Bandwidth, willingness to download, taking risks of viruses, time out of my day, ect.

Self restraint isn't a good answer because how do we, random people over the internet, know you can control yourself?

That's weak logic.

I never said anything about logic. That is just my opinion. If you consciously own them, and have used them, then you are a cheater :\

It is my opinion, I don't care if you or anyone else thinks otherwise, in my mind said person is a cheater.

Also some other note I would like to add, my definition of cheater is probably different than yours. I for one normally don't mind playing with a cheater, I mean just as long as they aren't using something that gives them such a high advantage like 90%vs10%. It is fun to challenge yourself.

Something along the lines of: "Hey, your a cheater... and I STILL beat you... HAHAHA!"
