razorblade001I never said anything about logic.

Do you understand what logic is? It's your reasoning and judgment. If you have an opinion without using any logic, then you're a mindless drone that accepted whatever someone told you was correct. Otherwise, you used logic in trying to justify your opinion.

razorblade001That is just my opinion. If you consciously own them, and have used them, then you are a cheater :\

It is my opinion, I don't care if you or anyone else thinks otherwise, in my mind said person is a cheater.

In a loose definition of the term, yes, Spoonie can be classified as a cheater. Just as if you consciously defended your house with lethal force. You would be, technically, a murderer.

In my opinion, and using sensible logic, the difference between being a cheater (and a murderer) is the intent. Spoonie's intent wasn't to destroy a game but to better understand the cheats, as to properly and more quickly identify the cheaters in clan matches or public servers.
