just wanted to point out that there are crossover motherboards out there that sacrifice the second pci-e slot for an agp slot. for example the 939 dual sata2 motherboard by asrock. you have an agp slot and a single pci-e (16x) slot in there. obviously you cant use them both at the same time, and no sli, but its a good upgrade motherboard if you have an amd processor and a good agp card that you dont feel like parting with just yet.
