
Subject: New C&C FPS confirmed - due late 2008
Posted by Goztow on Wed, 12 Dec 2007 15:09:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

source

As announced in the topic underneath this one, and now confirmed by EA:

EA has confirmed to us that the Command & Conquer series is merging with the first-person shooter genre in new title Tiberium.

The publisher was keeping lips pretty tightly sealed, but it did tell us that the game is pencilled in for a late 2008 release. Official images aren't expected until early next year, but there are scans already doing the round as additional details have appeared in Game Informer magazine.

It's said the game is a squad-based shooter that's set 11 years on from the third Tiberium war, and is being described as Battlefield-meets GRAW-meets Rainbow Six: Vegas.

Read more
