All it boils down to is that you should be moderately knowledgeable about what you're doing. I've been using eBay and PayPal for something like 5 or 6 years and I've never actually lost any money with it. I did buy something once that wasn't shipped but PayPal took my money back from the seller when I reported them and I bought it from someone else, no big deal.

If you're reasonably computer savvy, not a moron, and not a paranoid idiot, you should have no problems using eBay and PayPal to buy things.
