

---

Subject: Re: DHCP

Posted by Zion on Thu, 03 Jan 2008 18:57:43 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

- 1) Check to see if your computer has an IP set by your routers NAT.
- 2) Check your routers settings, make sure its not blocking the WLAN.
- 3) Check your computers DNS is the same as the routers IP (usually 192.168.0.1 or something similar).

Come back after you have the results of this.

---