It'd definitely better to have someone who has a legal background (due to studies), than someone who knows someone who has background, if you understand what I mean..

Ok, well what exactly is needed? Free legal advice? Both my parents work with various type of lawyers, if you want, I could ask them?

I have their emails from a Careers project way back when.

A very good friend of mine does (international?) law studies here in Groningen, but that's no use for the USA I guess.
