

---

Subject: Re: What are you views on this?

Posted by Chimp on Wed, 09 Jan 2008 18:18:38 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Dover wrote on Wed, 09 January 2008 11:39Blazer wrote on Wed, 09 January 2008 06:50There is no "love" when you are 13. Any boy after a 13 year old girl is interested in one thing...and you know what that is. I'm sure that SHE thinks she is in "love" with him, but I would be that he is either infatuated or just strings her along while telling his buddies about the newest "camslut" he has on the line.

That's not very nice, Blazer. I remember being in love when I was 13. I might have been 14, actually, but who's counting?

MWright967 wrote on Tue, 08 January 2008 23:33What are your views on online dating?

My daughter has begun developing an online relationship with a 13 year old boy. He has multiple pictures, and she's spoken to him on the phone before, as well as webcam. I look at the chatlogs after they speak, and the computer is down in the kitchen, and hes appears to be a nice kid. However, do I seem like I'm doing the wrong thing?

What is your opinion on letting children have friends or even BF/GF's online?

It's safe to assume your daughter hasn't had an IRL boyfriend? If she has, she'd know that the two are nothing alike, and one beats the other out by far.

I mean, she's still young, and I guess she'll be wanting to experiment like this (Or just plain doesn't know any better). If you oversee the entire thing I guess there isn't much of a problem, but your daughter is setting herself up for disapointment.

Thats part of the reason that I'm letting her do it. I want her to be able experience it before dating REAL boys. I've tried to teach her as best I can about how to be safe on a date and what to expect, and not to have sex until shes older, but I can only do so much, and hope that she makes the right decision.

---