Not sure whatcha mean there man...the spam forum has the same (lack of) restrictions on posting pics as the other forums currently have, and from looking at the spam forum, nobody is having a problem posting pics there?

In every section except the spam section there is a "file attachments" section right below the "body" section. In there contains a white box with a "browse" button and an "upload file" button next to it. You can browse folders, find the pic you want, and the upload it. Unless something is fucked with my account (which is possible) that is not the case in the spam section.
