I have some ideas which might make it possible to recognize a hacker.

I was thinkin of developping a server module which allows the admins to check the suspect's renegade folder for any possible modifications. The module will get the modification names and list them to the server. All w3d files will be given in green, all skins in blue and all other stuff in red. I don't know if this is possible to make, but if it does it might work.
