The cry should be for "Public Ban Polls", where the community can decide to remove members that cause problems repeatedly.

That's not true. If you read the sticky on top of this forum, then you know that this subforum is unmoderated. If you don't want to read bullshit, then you'll have to restrain yourself of coming in here.

That is also why a lot of bullshit, split out of moderated topics, comes here.

This is the place where retards get the chance to act retarded. If they do it in other subforums, their replies will be moved to the silo and/or to this subforum and if they continue doing it they'll get banned (like ferkhat).

There's a few people that have gotten a few warnings, mostly for bullshit in the "general discussion". Renalpha, for instance, is pretty close to getting his access removed.

The rules leave space for a lot of freedom, more than I would allow. But the rules are what they are and it's those rules that us moderators are trying to keep respected.

Now if you have problems with certain persons on these forums breaking the rules, then feel free to PM me about it or to report posts using the report function.
