You're hosting a huge party event for total strangers (it seems you know some), and from the looks of it, covering most costs (outside plane tickets and such), and people call you mean?! Looks like you guys had a blast. No wonder you're fixing to do it all again. I'm partly interested, but money and more specifically time are issues.

As for school, in warmer states (i.e., South and West), school lets out earlier because it gets warmer there sooner. In other states, it's the beginning of June that it lets out and the beginning of September that it starts up. Some areas are later than that. Just a tad later may have helped some folks, but if it's set in stone, there's not much that can be done.
