I played the demo, and didn't like it. Never played online once.

Unfortunately I was forced to buy it when I bought TFD. And me, trying to get my money's worth, figured I would at least try it, thinking it "couldn't be as bad as the demo."

Well I was wrong. The single player didn't make sense, the graphics looked like everything was made of paper, and the stupid arrogant attitude the USA had was highly annoying and offensive.

Game play constantly reminded me of Starcraft: from unit functionality all the way down to how the command bar looked and functioned. More than half of the things that made C&C great were gone without a trace, and finally game balance threw me through a loop.

... however, to each their own opinion, I guess.
