FFS, STOP MISUNDERSTANDING ME. The point of my thread was to point out how getting owned leads to abuse of power. That's the point. I clearly mentioned it in my first post:

Seems you don't get it, he is an admin at that server.

He owns/get rights to be an owner (or controller/moderator of the server)

You can't abuse any goods that you are legally in control of.

It doesn't care for what he bans you it is his property thus he can do all he wants with it and thus it is not abuse. Your point fails, you cannot not abuse any goods you are owner of!!!

He can only be abusive according to their own rules on their forum.

Although indeed it is nicer to do it a better way than he did.

I think this is the same as Blazer wanted to point out.
