I'm looking at getting a student/web design laptop for university. I do webdesign and was really liking HP's tablet line. I noticed they only come with AMD's 64bit dual core processors. I've heard these things are power hogs and they're noisy as hell. Anyone know anything about these or have any experience?

Whats the hype about the core2 duo I think it is? Are they worth looking at? Whats a good processor to watch for?

If I don't get a tablet laptop I'd like to strip vista off of it so I'm not hoping to get one with the fancy finger reader and all that crap. Chances are I wouldn't use it if I had vista.

Oh ya I'm trying to find one that looks cool just for braggin rights. Unless there's an alienware around 1000 I'm not looking for one of those.
