Being that the JROTC is not a branch of the military, and you were also not "on duty" so to speak, this guy had no reason to come down on you. I don't care if he is a general, he is not your superior officer, you aren't even in his branch of the military, or the military proper, at all! You should have told him to fuck off. Who the hell does he think he is fucking with what are technically civilians in a store, minding their own business?
