A) An attention-whore.

May be in the great USA.

well, is it so difficult to imagine, that some people are real?

You can see postings of Griever too in the picture section of the noobstories forum (n00bparty-pics).

Of course are they from one IP adress, because we live together and share one internetconnection with a router, you great sherlock holmes. And of course I play every night simultaneous with two computers and two accounts. LOL

We dont have the need for attention, but because of people screaming "fake" all the time we thought it is necessary to post a picture. May be, some people needs this in young ages, but with 32 years I have real other problems then faking an account.

You can have pictures from her with our local newspaper or something else to stop the fake-screamings. lol.
