Alot of Soldier's don't respect cadets since you guys walk into an officer position if you stick with it. You end up a leader of more experienced Soldiers and end up getting you or your team killed. I had a friend that was in Iraq who saw an entire squad get mowed down because an officer, fresh out of the academy, told his team to walk into a house that everyone knew was a waiting ambush. The officer ended up dead and two of his squad ended up severly wounded. Until you have experienced what they have you are nothing to them, just another puke playing soldier.
