I'm looking forward to the time when society can finally advance because we have run out of "firsts". What are these firsts that I speak of? There are hundreds of them, here are just a couple that have been accomplished:

- * First free slaves "allowed" to own land
- * First black person "allowed" to vote
- * First woman "allowed" to vote

Here are a couple that have not:

- * First black man elected president
- * First woman elected president

Like I said there are many more. I think that as long as there are still things like this that have not been done and accepted, we will never evolve beyond the barbaric and narrow-minded race that we are. Think of how nice it will be, to have an election, where you simply debate the best person for the job, and the amount of pigmentation in their skin, nor their chromosomes are not even considered as a factor.

P.S. Yes I know that Obama is only "half black". It's sad that I had to make this statement just because I know that someone wants to nitpick what I said instead of actually thinking about it.
