Any way, I checked the video card fan to day. It was running and working fine!

But there is a problem, it does not cool the video card really well. I have 2 power supplies that I don't use so I took the fan from one of them and wanted to put it inside of the case. Do you guys thing it is a good idea?

Yes, if you can find a dedicated socket for it (or have a spare bulgin one from your PSU and use an adapter) and if you position it efficiantly.
