See where it says Cabal8616 "hey dicklips" and Aircraftkiller "fuck off"? Your post reads as "Cabal said hey, dicklips, so Aircraftkiller told him to fuck off."

That's what happens when you put two names in a quote like that. It's a crazy thing, I know, that basic English.

/also add to the fact that the "renegade forum community" seems about half and half on the subject judging strictly from votes

//let's also consider that you're the one who added me to your friends list on the playstation network, and now suddenly you're angry?

///then there's the problem that you don't speak for anyone but yourself, so when you put all three slashies together you get the idea that your post was just as i described it

////sure, i got what you were saying. but that doesn't mean you wrote it the way you intended to, which is misleading

/next time just tell me to fuck off, it's much simpler and to the point.
