There is another gaming mode that is quite popular too, it's called 'duelling' usually played on Club Carnage Extreme duelling takes place on the main dance floor.

The rules are dictated by the host (usually) you could have a 1v1 2v2 or all v all aka. a Rumble! or Team Rumble (<-- that gets a bit out of hand sometimes) or special weapon rules, sniper only etc....

A duel is started (if there is 2 players only in the server) by throwing timed C4 in to the center of the dance floor and waiting for it to explode (a bit like a starting pistol). If there are more than 2 players in the server a different player can use remote C4 to start a duel (usually the host).

Players start at opposite ends of the dance floor and must not leave for the duration of the match. there are a few other things you could make rules like only the host uses caps lock on to chat so everyone knows who is calling the shots, and turning FF on so you can have a true all v all

I'm currently putting together a map for this mode that gives the host more control over the arena. It's looking good expect the extra characters I used in Temple_DM

This mode usually is invoked when players become tired of roleplay and want to kill each other
