

---

Subject: Re: Teen killed after accident in neighborhood across the street from my house.

Posted by Ryu on Wed, 25 Jun 2008 22:13:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

warranto wrote on Wed, 25 June 2008 18:46Ryu wrote on Sun, 22 June 2008 13:23Crimson wrote on Sun, 22 June 2008 01:39I hope it will teach his little brother to stay away from drugs. In fact, I hope it teaches a lot of people the dangers of marijuana and other drugs. I can see in my head the stoned, drooling idiots who decided that riding on the hood of a car would be a great idea and nothing could possibly go wrong.

It's a shame to see a young life snuffed out like this and I hope at least one person decides not to follow this path that so many young people are following.

Marijuana doesn't make you do stupid things like that, You do, and only you, can do stupid shit.

Unless he snorted like two lines of coke as well as taking Charlie and drinking 5 cans of Carlsberg, then maybe you'll trick yourself into doing it.

btw marijuana can stay in your body for months so they might not have smoked some that night - But I can tell you now I've never met anyone who does silly stunts while stoned.

I thought it was that it only stayed in certain areas, like in your hair and not in your system? I could be wrong here, of course.

Also interesting that you have never met anyone who does silly stunts while stoned... because EVERY person I have met while they are stoned has acted stupid, be it stunts or just in their talking.

I think it's your kidneys OR saliva glands, Don't quote me on that one though.

I guess that's peer pressure and ass-hats in general.

I mean, most of the people I know who smoke weed now, are usually tech savvy or laid back people who just sit around at friends and do bugger all.

---