

---

Subject: Re: GLOBAL WARMING

Posted by nikki6ixx on Sat, 28 Jun 2008 02:56:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

The only thing government should be doing, is setting REASONABLE guidelines for pollution. That's it. Consumer spending, and shareholder interests will drive companies to be greener.

People are demanding 'greener' products, and guess what, the private sector is literally bending over backwards to bring those products to the public. The Chevrolet Volt, a 'plug-in' hybrid is coming out for 2010, and the Honda FCX clarity, a hydrogen vehicle, is already able to be leased. Neither of these vehicles have been funded by the government. Electronics are increasingly using less harmful plastics, and manufacturing processes are getting greener every day.

---