Gozy you're not getting my point. The time example was just to show why [i][/] don't want to use XWIS itself.. I cannot be bothered to load Renegade and then login etc.. I would much prefer to type /ren and off I go.

Seye; I don't care for other servers if this patch allows me to join more server then so be it but its not what im looking for. I don't want this security simply because I do not have the time to sit here and explain to all the non-xwis players how to setup GSA or RenIP or ASE etc.. to connect to our server because they have to have there own password. If the person is that worried about someone trying to be them then they can use the servers regulation bot to stop this.. If the server doesn't have this option then really people shouldn't be playing there.

If you decide to discard this, atleast make the security configurable so the server owner can turn this off if he wishes not to have this 'security'
