And not surprisingly the denial:

If a strike is made against Iran, gas prices would soar sky high, destroy the Middle East, crush economies, and bring in years and decades of war and suffering with seemingly no end to the violence.

The works of man are all in vain. May God bless us all.

And let's not forget the worsening crisis with Russia and Georgia...both nations are preparing for war.

If Israel bombs Iran, Russia will probably go after Israel, and this could probably happen. Granted, it was written in the 80s and some things might be off, but it looks like a very real possibility.
