All in all though, through a 2 second longer reload time you're probably only going to miss 1 shot on an Orca. Not enough to make a huge difference, but enough to make you as an Orca pilot narrowly escape losing all your health to one single sniper.

Right now you could be one of the worst snipers in the world and still be able to shoot down Orcas on City Flying at any given time. Even good Orca pilots; it doesn't take any skill or teamwork to do this.

An Orca really only has a chance against a Sakura if it's flying near her. But if there's any distance between the Ramjet and the Orca, the Ramjet has practically infinite range and the Orcas stands no chance.
