well as of right now testing someone or asking for screen shots means nothing. because unless its a really dumb cheater he would deactivate the cheats then give you a clean ss. rg is easily bypassed and thus only thing you can do is follow someone and keep recording their gameplay. until you have enough evidence to build a solid case to ban them.

or if you are a dick and have the power just ban them and not even need any proof... as some of us already know... no names mentioned.

but again there is hope, the new patch should be taking care of all of this.

i have been staying away from sniper servers for the last while. and i will be back in them once the patch comes out, since i would love to see how many of the great snipers will suddenly loose their skill, and how many will still dominate.

i just hope all the elite players that own 95% of the people dont suddenly have to take an indefinite break... and might not be ever back to ren.
