
Subject: Re: Radio commands

Posted by Jamie or NuneGa on Mon, 21 Jul 2008 17:58:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I find if someone is spammed it usually is to get the attention of the entire team.

Ctrl +2 spam proly means 'I have a apc get in now' whereas one single ctrl +2 is probably aimed at a specific player.

Heres a random thought how about limiting the range on the command... so you won't hear a ctrl+2 if you are in the enemy's base.
