Obama would try way too hard with relations, and everything else would be fucked. Granted, he might actually do a decent job with it, but that's a maybe there. He seems like the type to put everything he can on one aspect and pretty much forget the rest. However, as President, you can't just ignore those things, so I bet he'd end up getting pretty messed up and tense, making things just crash altogether.

Sadly, most people don't realize it... Because almost his entire campaign is aimed at getting people to like him, and ignoring almost everything else. So it sucks to say that he has a good chance of getting in. I really hope he doesn't.
