

---

Subject: Re: Election betting thread...

Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 02 Aug 2008 21:25:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Excellent points ^...the problem we have is that over the many years, some private rich n00bs and the so called "higher" society have grown very close with the leadership...

Take for example the Pentagon's closeness with the military-industrial complex. We want to go to war ONLY after all the facts are in place...not to go blindly and in turn give good business to your friends. The government should not be that close friends with anyone from private sector even if they are filthy rich and have status.

IMO, if McCain wins, he will merely fit into the chain that's been in place for long...he will play the high-stakes game that every president's been forced to play. If Obama gets it, he won't fit into any chain...and he will start anew with many confused enemies.

I honestly don't think any of this change can be done by one man...

---