spotelmobigejoe14 Personally, I think that EA should now be considered a monopoly. But, in order for EA to become a monopoly is to merge with another big company like Sony Computer Entertainment of America (SCEA). The law that keeps monopolies from forming is keeping EA at bay from taking total control over the computer entertainment industry which is a good thing.

EA is just eating up these small companies to gain more money just like John D. Rockefeller was doing in the oil industry was back when. He was then greeted by many angry people and an upset government. Once the government passed the anti-monopoly law, The Rockefeller oil industry was hurt majorly hurt, but still kept going.

So EA is bordering on a very unhealthy obsession.

they are putting in a bid to buy sega, is that close enough for you?

Who gives a crap, its sega.
