Your server having a large number of players on it with the pointfix in place is an anomaly, because from what I've seen in the Jelly community is an exponential decline in players on AOW1, our only pointfix server, until Jelly stepped in and made changes to the gameplay that make it a completely different server.

You have data that clearly indicate the unpopularity of the pointfix, yet you don't acknowledge it or attempt to find solutions that everyone will be happy with. I see that as YOUR responsibility, since you are attempting to make this a mandatory patch.

If the pointfix was on before AND after the changes, then clearly the issue was not the pointfix, but the addition features a server has. Unless I just read that wrong, that is what you basically stated.

(I have been told it has been on before and after).
